

LIFE IN THE TIME OF COVID-19: THE POETICS AND POLITICS OF IMMOBILITY IN HAITI, THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC AND CUBA

More than 50 doctors and paramedics arrived in Milan from Cuba on March 22 to help with coronavirus treatment. Antonio Calanni/AP

Thursday, May 21 | 4
PM – 5:30 PM PDT
Zoom:
[https://ucla.zoom.us/j/9
2821059322](https://ucla.zoom.us/j/92821059322)

This panel discussion offers short presentations and discussion about the situation of Covid 19 in Cuba, Haiti and the Dominican Republic from the perspectives of three scholars with years of experience in these contexts.

Presenters:

1. Nancy Burke, Professor of anthropology and public health at University of California, Merced
2. Dr. César Herrera, Director of CEDIMAT Centro Cardiovascular, Santo Domingo
3. Rodrigo Bulamah, Post-doctoral fellow at the Graduate Program of Social Sciences, Federal University of São Paulo (Unifesp), Brazil